There were rumors at St. Paul, on Friday, of a serious meeting among Gen. Sully's forces at Fort Rice. It is stated that a large number of soldiers seized provisions, transportation, horses, arms, &c., and started for home. It was supposed they were moving towards Minnesota. Dissatisfaction at being retained in the service after the conclusion of the war, is the reason assigned for their mutinous conduct.

Reputation of H. M. Rice.

We take the following from the St. Paul Statesman (Democratic):
And must we now stultify ourselves, sacrifice our independence and manhood, by voting for Henry M. Rice, only twelve months ago joining the enemy to swell the chorus of "cuphead" and "traitor," and even now not accepting the Democratic platform, but with the most brazen effrontery avowing that he never belonged to any other than the Democratic party, and contemptuously pointing to his past record for his future deeds. For one, we solemnly aver that we shall never do it—no never!

A Few Plain Questions.

The following pertinent questions are not put by a Northern Abolition paper, but by a Southern sheet—the Whig—published in Cecil, Maryland:

Which is the best citizen—the white man who stole a horse during the rebellion, and gave his influence to "the South," or the black man who went to the battlefield and gave his assistance to the government?

Which is the most loyal—the white man who by words justified and abetted the rebellion; or the black man who by deeds aided in crushing it?

Which is the most worthy of belief in a court of justice—the white man who has violated all his oaths for purposes of treason; or the black man whose simple word alone, in behalf of the cause of the Union, has never been broken?

Which is the most deserving of our esteem and confidence—the white man who murdered by inches thousands of our brave soldiers in the vile pens at Andersonville, Milton, Salisbury, Belle Island, etc.; or the black man who aided and piloted them in their escape from these vile pens?

Which is the most entitled to the halloo—the white man who has fought four years to destroy the government; or the black man who has fought, ever since we would permit him, to preserve it?

Which is the most entitled to a voice in framing and administering our laws—the white traitor, Jefferson Davis, and the thousands of white men, equally as disloyal, who endeavored to build a Southern Confederacy upon the ruins of the Union; or the loyal black man, Frederick Douglass, and the thousands of black men equally as loyal, who, with their money and their blood, did all they could to preserve that union from destruction?

Which are most entitled to all the rights and privileges of citizenship—the white rebels whose bullets brought death to many of our fathers, brothers and loved ones; or the black loyalists whose bullets caused many of those white rebels to bite the dust, and aided materially in restoring peace to the country?

These are questions so plain and direct that they need neither word nor comment; and the heart of every man who is loyal to the government and the old flag will respond to them with instinctive correctness.

Don't Judge by Appearance.

Some years ago there arrived at the hotel erected near Niagara Falls, an old-looking man, whose appearance and deportment were quite in contrast with the crowds of well-dressed and polished figures which adorned the celebrated resort. He seemed just to have sprung from the woods; his dress, which was made of leather, stood dreadfully in need of repair, apparently not having felt the touch of a needlewoman for many long months. A worn out blanket, that might have served for a bed, was buckled to his shoulders; a large knife hung on one side, balanced by a long, rusty tin box on the other, and his beard, uncropped, tangled and coarse, fell down upon his bosom, as if to counterpoise the weight of the thick dark locks that supported themselves on his back and shoulders. This strange being to the spectators, seemingly half-civilized, half-savage, had a quick, glancing eye, and elastic, firm movement, that would not doubt win its way through the brakes, both of the wilderness and of society. He pushed his little burden, quietly looked around for the landlord, and then modestly asked for breakfast. The host, at first diew back with evident repugnance at the apparition which thus proposed to intrude its unclean form among the genteel visitors, but a few words whispered in his ear speedily satisfied his doubts; the stranger took his place in the company, some shrugging, some staring, some laughing outright. Yet there was more in that single man than in all the rest of the throng. He was an American workman, as he said; he was a genuine son of Nature, yet had been entertained with distinction at the tables of princes; learned societies, to which the like of Cuvier belonged, bowed down to welcome his presence; kings had been complimented when he spoke to them; in short, he was one whose fame will be growing brighter when the fashionables who laughed at him and many much greater than they shall be utterly perished. From every hill top and deep, shady grove, the birds, those blossoms of the air, will sing his name. The little wren will pipe it with his matins in hymn about our house; the oriole carol it from the slender grasses of the meadows; the turtle dove roll it through the secret forest; the many voiced mocking bird pour it along the air; and the imperial eagle, the bird of Washington, as he soars far up on the blue mountains, will scream it to the tempest and the stars. He was the late John J. Audubon, ornithologist.

Items of News.

The receipts for the Lincoln monument at Springfield average $12 daily.

The merchants of Madison, Wis., are agitating the question of a Board of Trade.

In Knoxville, Tenn., where the blacks preponderate, three hundred and fifty seven whites and two blacks eat from the public crib. Just so all over the south.

The Fontans are negotiating for the purchase of eight ocean steamers, and it is stated large quantities of arms have been purchased of the government by parties in their interest.

The Atlantic Telegraph Company have contracted for a new cable to be laid next summer. They announce that they shall make no efforts to recover the lost cable this fall, which is regarded as equivalent to an admission that it is a total loss.

The Skowhegan Hotel, in Skowhegan, Me., was destroyed by fire on the 25th ult., with a great portion of the furniture and the effects of its inmates. Loss $12,000 to $15,000. Partially insured.

If you open the lower sash of a window, there is more draft than if you open the upper sash. Explain the reason of this. If the lower sash be open, cold external air will rush freely into the room and cause a great draft inward, but if the upper sash be open, the heated air of the room will rush out, and of course there will be less draft inward.

State News.

The track of the Minnesota Central Railroad was laid to Minneapolis yesterday, and the first train of cars entered that place in the afternoon. The work has been prosecuted with great rapidity in order to complete it by the State Fair. Trains will commence running to Douglas today. In two weeks they will be completed to Faribault.—Press.

Mr. W. W. McCongall has raised 13 bushels of onions from a spot 30 feet square.—Wabasha Herald.

The question of street cars is being agitated in St. Paul. A New York company is ready to lay down the tracks upon certain conditions.

BREACH OF PROMISE.—Miss, Elvira Baker has just recovered a verdict of $5,000 in the District court of Winona county, against Benjamin C. Baker, for breach of promise to marry. People ought to count the cost before they make promises they do not intend to keep.

Taken Up.—By the subscriber, an ox nearly white, red neck and shoulders, large and roughly built. The owner can have the same described property by proving property and paying charges.

Science Answering Simple Questions.

Why is rain water soft? Because it is not impregnated with earth and minerals.

Why is it more easy to wash with soft water than hard? Because soft water unites freely with soap, and dissolves it instead of decomposing it, as hard water does.

Why do wood ashes make hard water soft? 1st. Because the carbonic acid of wood ashes combines with the sulphate of lime in the hard water, and converts it into chalk. 2d. Wood ashes convert some of the soluble salts of water into insoluble, and throws them down as a sediment, by which the water remains more pure.

Why has rain water such an unpleasant smell when collected in a water tub or tank? Because it is impregnated with decomposed organic matters, washed from roots, trees or the casks in which it is collected.

Why does water melt salt? Because very minute particles of water insinuate themselves into the pores of the salt, by capillary attraction and force the crystals apart from each other.

How does blowing hot foods make them cool? It causes the air which has been heated by the food to change rapidly, and give place to fresh cool air.

Why do ladies fan themselves in hot weather? The fresh particles of air may be brought in contact with their face, by the action of the fan; and as every fresh particle of air absorbs some heat from the skin, this constant change makes them cool.

Does a fan cool the air? No, it makes the air hotter by imparting to it the heat of our face, but cools our face by transferring its heat to the air.

Why is there always a draft through parlors and window casings? Because the external air being colder than the air of the room we occupy, rushes through the window casings to supply the deficiency caused by the escape of warm air up the chimney, &c.

I open the lower sash of a window there is more draft than if you open the upper sash. Explain the reason of this. If the lower sash be open, cold external air will rush freely into the room, and cause a great draft inward; but if the upper sash be open, the heated air of the room will rush out, and of course there will be less draft inward.

By which means is a room better ventilated? By opening the upper sash, because the hot, vitiated air, which always ascends towards the ceiling, can escape more easily.

Why does the wind dry damp linen? Because dry wind, like a dry sponge, imbibes the particles of vapor from the surface of the linen as fast as they are found.

What is the hottest place in a church or chapel? The gallery.

Why is the gallery of all public places hotter than the lower part of the building? Because the heated air of the building ascends, and all the cold air which can enter through the doors and windows, keeps to the floor till it has become heated.—Dr. Brewer's Guide to Science.

A Living Death.

Describing the Dry Tortugas, to which place, it is understood, the government has sent Mudd, Spanier, Arnold and O'Laughlin, a contemporary says, in view of the magnitude of their crime, that a more suitable place of punishment for these conspirators could not have been found. The solemn rail of the waves of the Gulf; the silent and even ghostly air, or rather want of air, on these living coral reefs; the absence of every living thing save the albatross and the shark; "the blue above and the blue below," in the unvarying monotony save the infrequent visit of the hurricane, which only adds terror to desolation—all these may fairly picture the far-seward home of those to whom the law and the testimony have denied the boon of death.

A SARATOGA correspondent says:—"So far as heard from the matrimonial market stands thus: Old stock married off, none; old stock hopeful of success, 1; widows of first class married, or soon will be, 10; widows of second class married, or soon will be, 15; young ladies married, 17; engaged, and day set for wedding, 95; betrothed, and gone to get the consent of parents, 67; still biding and cooing, 99; matches broken up by stern parents, 11; come together again, 3—but they have to do so as parents; in love, but not reciprocated, 374; on one to love, 43; elopement, 1; private marriages, 2.

Which was the most Gallant.

On a road not a hundred miles from the town of Fort, as two smart beaux were walking along, they met a lady friend, who, as she passed, gave them a friendly nod of recognition. One of the gentlemen returned it by a graceful bow; but the other, a "brave" farmer, took no notice of the lady. She being rather particular upon the subject of politeness, afterwards questioned him how he did not return her salutation; and his reply was—"I forgot it."

Against the Current.

A waggish chap, whose six-n-wife, by drowning last her relations—i.e., called out his neighbors all around, and told 'em that his spouse was drowned, and in spite of search, could not be found.—He knew, he said, the very monk whom she had troubled in the brook, and he had dragged along the shore, above the place, a mile or more.

"Above the place," the people cried, "why what d'ye mean?"

"The man replied—

"Of course you don't suppose I'd go and waste the time to look below? I've known the woman quite a spell, and learnt her fashions to the well; alive or dead, she'd go, I swear, against the current anyhow!"

A Tale of Crimoline.

A lady with a crimoline was walking down a street—her feathers fluttering in the wind, her hoops stuck out some feet. She walked the earth as if she felt it. She had no part, and proudly did she stop along, for pride was in her heart. She did not see the only dog which walked close by her side, all save the only tail of which her crimoline did hide. His tail the dog with pleasure shook, it flattered in the wind, and from the lady's crimoline stuck out a foot behind. A crowd the tail did soon espie, as it waved to and fro, and like a rattle seemed to point the way the mail must go. The early dog right pleased was he, the quarters he had got, and walked behind the lady in a kind of dogfish trot. Each step the lady now did take seemed to increase her train, while those who followed in her wake, moved out with might and main. Some held their sides, they laughed so hard; and others fairly cried, while many even still confessed that they'd "like to have, diet." But still the lady sailed along in crimoline and pride, unmindful of the crowd behind, or dog close by her side. But soon another dog espied the tail which fluttered free; it so provoked his dog he could not let it be. But with a deep tremendous growl, he barked straight he went, and "neath the lady's crimoline both were quickly sent. They fought 'tis said, one hour or more—the lady nothing knew, but with her head erect sailed on, and did her way pursue. Some say she never would have known at all about the fight, had not one dog mistook, and gave her "limb" an awful lunge. But since that day, I've heard it said, the lady never was seen, upon the street, with so much pride, and such a crimoline.

Counsels to the Young.

Never be cast down by trifles. If a spider leaves his web twenty times, twenty times will he mend it again. Make up your mind to do a thing, and you will do it. Fear not if trouble comes upon you; keep up your spirits though the day may be a dark one.—

"Trouble never last forever.

The darkest day will pass away!"

If the sun is going down, look up to stars; if the earth is dark, keep your eyes on heaven. With God's presence and God's promises, a man or child may be cheerful.

Never despair when fog is in the air.

A sunny morning will come without warning.

Mind what you run after! Never be content with a bubble that will burst; or a firewood that will end in smoke and darkness. But that what you can keep, and which is worth keeping.

Something is better than nothing.

When gold and silver fly away.

Fight hard against a hasty temper.

Anger will come, but resist it strongly.

A spark may set a house on fire. A fit of passion may give you cause to mourn all the days of your life. Never revenge and injury.

He that revengeth knows no rest.

The meek possess a peaceful breast."

If you have an enemy, act kindly to him; and make him your friend. You may find him over at once, but try again. Let one kindness be followed by another, till you have compassed your end. By little and by little great things are completed.

Water filling day by day

Wears the hardest rock away."

And so repeated kindness will soften a heart of stone.

Whatever you do, do it willingly. A boy that is chipped at school never learns his lessons well. A man that is compelled to work, cares not how badly it is performed. He that pulls off his coat cheerfully, strips up his clothes in earnest, and sings, while he works, is the man for us.

A cheerful spirit gets on quick.

A grumbler in the mud will stick.

Evil thoughts are wars; enemies than lions and tigers, for we can get out of the way of evil least—but had thought's win their way everywhere. Keep your soul and heart full of good thoughts, that bad thoughts may not find room—

Be on your guard, and strive and pray.

To drive all evil thoughts away."

U. S. 7-30 LOAN.

The sale of the first series of $300,000,000 of the 7 30 Loan was completed on the 31st of March, 1865. The sale of the second series of Three Hundred Millions, payable three years from the 15th day of June, 1865, was begun on the 1st of April. In the short space of thirty days, over One Hundred Millions of these series have been sold—leaving this day less than Two Hundred Millions to be disposed of. The interest is payable semi-annually in currency on the 15th of December and 15th of June by Coupons attached to each note, which are readily cashed anywhere.—

More and More Desirable.

The Rebellion is suppressed, and the Government has already adopted measures to reduce expenditures as rapidly as possible to a peace footing, thus withdrawing from market as borrowers and purchasers.

This is the only Loan in Market now offered by the Government, and constitutes the GREAT POPULAR LOAN OF THE PEOPLE.

The Seven-Thirty Notes are convertible on their maturity, at the option of the holder, into U. S. 5-20 Six per cent GOLD BEARING BONDS. Which are always worth a premium.

Free from Taxation.

The 7 30 Notes cannot be taxed by Towns, Cities, Counties or States, and the interest is not taxed unless on a surplus of the owner's income exceeding six hundred dollars a year. This fact increases their value from one to three per cent per annum, according to the rate level on other property.

Subscribe Quickly.

Less than $200,000,000 of the Loan authorized by the last Congress are now on the market. This amount, at the rate at which it is being absorbed, will all be subscribed for within two months, when the notes will undoubtedly command a premium, as has uniformly been the case on closing the subscriptions to other Loans. It now seems probable that no considerable amount beyond the present series will be offered to the public.

In order that citizens of every town and section of the country may be afforded facilities for taking the loan, the National Banks, State Banks, and Private Bankers throughout the country have generally agreed to receive subscriptions at par. Subscribers will select their own agents, in whom they have confidence, and who are only to be responsible for the delivery of the notes for which they receive orders.

Poetry.

The Old Man Dreams.

OLIVER WENDELL HOLMES.

For one hour of youthful joy!
Give me back my twentieth spring!
I'd rather laugh a bright-eyed boy
Than reign a gray beard king!

Oh with the sprinkled spoils of age!
Away with learning's crown,
Tear out life's wisdom written page,
And dash its trophies down!

One moment let my life blood stream
From boyhood's fount of fame?
Give me one giddy, reeling dream
Of life all love and fame.

My listening angel heard the prayer,
And calmly smiling, said,
"If I but touch thy silvered hair,
The hasty wish hath sped."

"But is there nothing in thy track
To bid thee fondly stay,
While the swift seasons hurry back
To find the wished-for day?"

Ah, faintest soul of womanhood!
Without thee what were life?
One bliss I cannot leave behind;
I'll take my precious—wife.

The angel took a sapphire pen,
And wrote in rainbow dew,
"The man would be a boy again,
And be a husband too!"

"And is there nothing left unsaid
Before the change appears?
Remember, all their gifts have fled
With those dissolving years?"

Why, yes; for memory would recall
My fond paternal joys;
I could not bear to leave them all;
I'll take—my—girl—and—boys!

The smiling angel dropped its pen—
He could not live on $40 a month.
He seldom went abroad.
A few neighbors was all he visited; here he would sit and smoke his pipe. His conversation was varied, but he liked to talk on the Mexican war. Mostly he was a man of silence. Mr. Washburn tells me that he seemed to him to be thinking on some abstract subject, and that he took him to be a thoughtful, reflective, and large minded man. Such being his condition, one is reminded of the case of Frederick the Great during the years that he was banished by his father. But, in whatever makes a man, Grant, the American hero, far excels. I will say here that he was always temperate, and in every way correct in his behavior.

A month or so before the Fort Sumter outrage, and afterward, Capt. Grant was uneasy. He walked through the streets, and to and fro in the store, saying nothing, and apparently was in a troubled state of mind. About these days the Douglas Guard organized in the city to counteract the Lincoln Wide-awakes, and Capt. Grant, as a military man, was appointed orderly sergeant. His reply was that a captain in the United States infantry was not the one to take such a position. He did not go near them. He meddled so little in politics that it is now known whether he voted for Lincoln or Douglas.

At last war came; a war meeting was held, and Capt. Grant was appointed chairman. Then he went to Mr. Washburn and told him that he had been elected at West Point at the expense of the government; he had resigned expecting never to serve again, but now he offered his services for what they were worth. A company was raised in the town, and under his direction it was equipped and sent to Cairo.

Galena is in the northwest part of the State. Sometimes the wants of this corner are disregarded. At Springfield there is always a ring for politicians who are anxious to provide for their set. It is difficult to do anything with them. Mr. Washburn urged Capt. Grant to go down and offer his services. He would help him all he could. The captain went down, and after some delay he was set to work drawing up and copying papers. After awhile he told them they could get somebody to do such work as well as he for a dollar a day. It was not in his line to be kept at a desk, seeing nobody and doing so little. He was met coolly, nobody knew him, nobody cared for him. Other persons took an interest in him, among them Mr. Houghton and Mr. McClelland, president of the bank here. The latter in particular pressed the captain's claims.

Then he was appointed an aid of Gov. Yates, and directed to hunt up state arms. He found about 1,500 rusty muskets. He also mustered in men. Still so many were his discouragements and so coldly was he looked upon, that he told his friends he was not wanted, and that he had better go home.

The importance of hiring a man of military knowledge was urged upon the governor. It was proposed he should be the colonel of the 21st regiment, but another got it.

About this time Capt. Grant went to Ohio to see his father, when Gov. Denison was urged to give him an appointment. The prospect here was good. Then he came back to Illinois. By this time the 21st regiment had become demoralized. The men talked of putting the colonel in the guard-house. Capt. Grant was sent to them, by the help of Logan; the men were quieted, and then our captain was appointed their colonel. The regiment turned out to be one of the best in the state.

Then Col. Grant came back to get his clothes, yes, to get his clothes. He had to have a uniform. To get it, money was borrowed and security given for the money. The American people can afford to read this now. Then he went back. On taking his men he had them marched, saying they would learn four times as fast. He went to Missouri, and was under Fremont.

Meanwhile his friends, like Cromwell's little daughter, were, "indeed very few." Mr. Houghton, editor of The Gazette, on the 31st of May, 1862, describes Col. Grant as the soul of honor, and no man breathes who has a more patriotic heart and "our new soldiers need the leadership of a rare man like Capt. Grant."

June 20th, the paper says the command of an Ohio regiment has been tendered Capt. Grant, and urges his fitness for a high command. June 22d is a notice that Capt. Grant has accepted the colonelcy of the 7th district regiment. July 31st, states that Col. Grant is to be promoted to a brigadiership, and congratulates the service on the event.

December 23d, is an editorial estimate of the character of Gen. Grant, and in particular, it mentions his modesty, frankness, sagacity, and strategy. I take these things from the files of the paper myself.

I will say here that Gen. Grant's father was a thorough going union man. He was not a radical, but there were some relatives quite different.

Perils of the Cretan Sponge Diver.

Capt. Spratt, of the royal vessel Spirit-fire, who proceeded some time since to the Isle of Crete to complete the surveys commenced under the direction of Captain Graves, has just published an entertaining volume of his experience. The east coast of Crete is noted for its fine sponges, and there are few trades that require more courage and training than that of the sponge gatherer. Thirty fathoms deep lies the object of search, and only by the assistance of a great weight can he descend so far. When down, the water presses on him at the rate of seventy-five pounds to the square inch, and with that great weight upon him he must keep his respiration suspended or die. The whole mode of operation is thus described in Capt. Spratt's work.

"The mode of operation preparatory to a dive is very peculiar and interesting; the diver whose turn it is, takes his seat on the deck of the vessel, at either the bow or the stern, and placed by his side a large flat slab of marble, weighing about twenty-five pounds, to which is attached a rope of the proper length and thickness. He then strips and is left by his companions to prepare himself. This seems to consist in devoting a certain time to clearing the passages of his lungs by expectorations, and highly inflating them afterwards, thus oxydizing his blood very highly by a repetition of deep inspirations. The operation lasts five or ten minutes or more according to depth; and during it the operator is never interfered with by his companions and seldom speaks or is spoken to; he is simply watched by two of them at a little distance, and they never venture to urge him or restrain him in any way during the process. It seems to a spectator as if the diver were going through a sort of mysterious ceremony of incantation.

When, from some sensation known only to himself, after these repeated long drawn and heavy inspirations, he deems the fitting moment to have arrived, he seizes the slab of marble, and, after crossing himself and uttering a prayer, plunges into the sea and rapidly descends. The stone is always held during the descent in front of the head at arm's length, and so as to offer as little resistance as possible, and by varying its inclination, it acts likewise as a rudder, causing the descent to be more or less verticle, as desired by the diver. As soon as he reaches the bottom, he places the stone under his arm to keep himself down, and then walks about up in the rocks, or crawls under its ledges, stuffing the sponges into a netted bag with a hooped mouth, which is strung round his neck to receive them; but he holds firmly to the stone or rope all the while, as his safeguard for returning, and for making the known signal at the time he desires it.

Now let us notice the proceedings of his companions in the boat floating some twenty or thirty fathoms above him. The two men who were nearest to him previously to his making the dive, but who systematically seem to place themselves so as to prevent him from conceiving the idea of being impatiently watched by them while undergoing the preparation, spring to their feet as soon as he disappears, and rush to the rope, which one of them holds in his hand, veering it out or shortening it as the diver moves about upon the bottom; and as soon as the signal indicative of his wish to return is felt, they commence hauling up the rope with great energy and earnestness, and in a way calculated to insure the greatest expedition of ascent, since the over-stay of a few seconds may be a point of life or death to the diver.

The hauling up is thus affected: The assistant, who has hold of the rope, awaiting the signal, first reaches down with both hands as low as he can, and, there grasping the rope, with a great bodily effort, raises it up to nearly arm's length over his head; the second assistant is then prepared to make his grasp as low down as he can reach, and does the same, and so on the two alternately, and by a fathom or more at a time, and with great rapidity, bring the anxious diver to the surface. A heavy blow from his nostrils, to expell the water and exhausted air, indicates to his companions that he is conscious and breathes."

Deafness made Available.

Doctor T. was considerably advanced in years and very deaf. An old college acquaintance, for many years, made a convenient point of visiting the doctor, or rather a visitation of a few weeks to the doctor's hospitable mansion, where he had always found a hearty welcome; although being of a leary sort, he was not the best suited for a sober man's companion; but the doctor's good nature overlooked what he did not wish to have seen in his old chum. This gentleman arrived at the doctor's on an evening when he had company, with many of whom he was acquainted, was in such high spirits from the circling glass, in addition to what he had gathered on his journey, that he could not refrain an attempt to be witty and pass a joke at his old friend's expense.

The doctor was engaged with some ladies at a card table, while the gentlemen were regaling with a bottle. The visitor hinted his intention, and was advised against it, but, persevering, he moved to the back of his friend's chair, and raising his voice loud enough for the doctor to hear, he inquired if his old favorite black eyed Betty (who made the doctor's bed while at college) was alive and well. The doctor would not hear, and continued the game with the greatest composure; but the ladies could not forbear tittering and laughing, which encouraged the visitor to repeat his inquiry a little louder. The doctor rising deliberately from the chair said he was very sorry his chum could not make it agreeable to stay longer, but he would order the servant to bring out his horse immediately; and taking up his silver bell from the table, he rang until his housekeeper appeared, to whom he gave directions about his chum's horse being lured out. As soon as the noise of the bell would permit, the visitor wished to explain; saying his friend misunderstood him, nothing in the world being further from his thoughts than being in a hurry to go away, as he had come purposely to stay a week or two with him as usual.

The doctor however turned a deaf ear, begged his friend to make no apology about making so short a visit, and again set his bell to work for his servant to bring the gentleman's great coat, as he was in a hurry. At every interval of ringing the bell, and giving orders to hasten bringing the horses out, the visitor attempted an explanation; but the doctor, with a composed, pleasant countenance, (while the whole company besides were ready to burst with their convulsions to refrain from laughter,) as often repeated his request that his friend would not make so many apologies about his stay, fairly hurried him out of the house, saw him mounted, wished him a good night, and assured his chum that when he could make it more agreeable to stay longer, he should be glad to see him again.—Boston Transcript.

The Par value of Brains.

Working as an ordinary hand in Philadelphia ship-yard, until very recently, was a man named John L. Knowlton. His peculiarity was that while others of his class were at ale-houses, indulging in jollification he was incessantly engaged in studying on mathematical combinations. One of his companions procured a poodle dog, and spent six months in teaching the quadruped to execute a jig upon his hind legs. Knowlton spent the same time in discovering some method by which he could saw a ship timber in a bevelled form. The first man taught his dog to dance; Knowlton in the same time discovered a mechanical combination that enabled him to do in two hours the work that would occupy a dozen men, by a slow and laborious process, an entire day.

The saw is now in use in all the ship-yards in the country. It cuts a beam to a curved shape as quickly as an ordinary saw will rip up a straight plank. Knowlton continued his experiments. He took no part in parades or target shooting and in a short time afterwards, he secured a patent for a machine which turns any material whatever, in a perfectly spherical form. He sold a portion of his patent for a sum equivalent to a fortune. The machine is now in operation in this city, cleaning off cannon balls for the Government. When the cannon balls come from the mould, the surface is encrusted, and the ordinary process of smoothing it was slow and wearisome. This machinery, almost to an instant, and with mathematical accuracy, peels it to the surface of the metal, at the same time smoothing out any deviations from the perfect spheroidal form.

Within a few days, this same plain, unassuming man has invented a boring machine which was tested in the presence of a number of scientific gentlemen, a few days ago. It bored at the rate of 22 inches per hour, through a block of granite, with a pressure of but 300 pounds on the drill. A gentleman present offered him $10,000 on the spot for a part interest in the invention in Europe and the offer was accepted at once.

The moral of this is that people who keep on studying, and sure to achieve something. Mr. Knowlton doesn't consider himself by means brilliant, but it inspired with an idea, he pursues it till he forces it into tangible shape. It everybody would follow copy, the world would be less filled with idlers, and the streets with grumblers and malcontents. Philadelphia Paper.

The New Confederate Flag.

From the Richmond Sentinel, Dec. 11, 1864.

We have before us an engraved copy of the proposed Confederate "44 g." provided for by the bill introduced into the Senate on yesterday, by Senator Semmes. It differs from the flag as now existing, chiefly in having a bar of red at the edge of the flag. The effect is to relieve it of its excess of white, and to impart to it more warmth and richness of expression. The proposed model is the design of an officer in the army, and is highly approved by many officers of taste and position, whose letters we have seen. It is particularly commended by naval officers, whose judgement in such matters is always considered entitled to peculiar consideration.

Death of Coal Bens.—Heath's mine in Virginia is reported to be fifty feet in thickness. A coal bed near Wilk-hamre, Pa., is said to be twenty feet thick; at March Chunk there is a coal bed forty to fifty feet deep; and in the basin of the Schuylkill it is fifty alternate seams of coal twenty-five of which are more than three feet in thickness; in Nova Scotia is a coal formation fourteen hundred feet deep and containing seventy-five alternate layers of coal. The Whitehaven coal mine in England has been worked twelve hundred feet deep, and extends a mile under the sea; and the Newcastle coal mine has been worked to the depth of fifteen hundred feet, and bored to an additional depth, without failing the bottom of the coal measure.

"Mr. Parks" said a lawyer to a witness, "I understand you to say that the defendant is a professor of religion. Does his practice correspond with his profession?" "I never heard of any correspondence or letter passing between them." "You said something about his propensity to drink. Does he drink hard?" "No, I think he drinks as easy as any man I ever saw." "One more question, Mr. Parks. Have you known the defendant a long time? What are his habits—loose or otherwise?" "The one he's now got on. I think, is rather tight under the arms, and too short waisted for the fashion." "You can take your seat Mr. Parks."

LOCAL.

GRADING.—We notice that Second Street is being repaired and placed in splendid condition.

REMOVED.—Judge McMillan, late a resident of Stillwater, has advertised his property at that place for sale, and removed to St. Paul.

ADVENTURE.—Capt. Mullen brought up yesterday a new boat with the above name. We did not learn whether she is to make another trip or not.

The Stillwater Messenger says: "Mr. F. W. Teager, of Denmark, in Washington County, has just harvested and sold (at $1.10 per bushel) sixteen thousand bushels of wheat."

BEATEN.—We, last week owing to a blunder of the compositor, were made to say that the logs from Chippewa river obstructed the navigation of the upper St. Croix. It should have read from Apple river.

POTATOES.—The potato yield this season has been very abundant. They are offered on our streets at twenty-five cents a bushel, but the winter stock will probably not be over 20 cts.

SCHOOL CLOSED.—The District school in District No. 1, closed yesterday. There will probably not be another District school at that place during the winter. We understand that Miss. Seales the efficient teacher who has had charge of the school for the past year, is returning to her eastern home.

SPRING FRUITS IN AUTUMN.—The Pioneer of Saturday says it has been shown some large and luscious raspberries, gathered by Mr. A. C. Elfeld, at Green Lake, in this County, on the 5th of October. Every paper in this State teems with items which go to prove what a highly favored state, Minnesota has been this season.

NARROW ESCAPE.—Doc. Brooks had a narrow escape the other day while on his way to visit a patient at Franconia, some person fired a gun in the woods near by and the ball passed so near the doctors head that the musical (?) sing of the missile was clearly distinguishable.

THE CAMPAIGN.—The Hon. Ignatius Donnelly is advertised to speak here on political subjects on Saturday, October 20th, at such time and place as shall be hereafter designated.

Senator Rice has for some reason abandoned the joint canvass of the state. Marshall will therefore "go it alone"—and win.

FAMILY GROCERIES.—Mr. David Canaday has rented the store room opposite the Chicago House, and proposes for the first of next week to have in store a well selected stock of Family Groceries.—David is too well known here as one who would not put sand in his sugar or water his vinegar, to need any encomium from us, when we bespeak for him a liberal share of the public patronage.

STAYED.—This craft was run upon a sunken rock at Prescott, last week, and is now laying over for repairs at St. Paul. Captain Storer at once chartered another boat to bring around the goods due the various points on the river.—Such promptness in the delivery of goods entrusted to his care cannot fail to gain popularity for his boat among shippers.

CHANGE.—A few weeks ago we announced that Jerry Ballard had decided to remain in charge of the Chicago House until April next. Since then however some pecuniary arrangements have been effected that enable Mr. M. J. Webb to again take possession of his property. Jerry retires from his public position with the best wishes of all the numerous ones to whom he has catered so successfully for some time past.

Mr. Webb is no stranger to his present duties having had considerable experience and has always sustained a reputation as "one who knows how to keep hotel."

CORRESPONDENCE.—In another column we give a letter from our "Occasional Correspondent," Carca Ward, dated at La Crosse. Read it.

SICKNESS.—There have been many cases of severe illness in this vicinity recently. Several of them are now considered convalescent, while some remain in quite a critical condition.

The Osceola Press announces that the St. Croix end of the "prairie road" is in "splendid condition!" Having had occasion to travel that road recently, we advise our readers to modify that statement considerably before they swallow it.

DUCKS AND GESE.—The rice lakes sloughs in the St. Croix bottom lands, abound much in these varieties of wild game. Persons desiring rare sport could not do better than to spend two or three days in slaughtering these feathered bipeds.

RETRIEVED.—The two copper colored devils Little Six and Medicine Bottle, who were to expiate their horrid crimes on the gallows have through the efforts of eastern sympathizers been retrieved, and may perhaps be set at liberty! How long, oh Lord, how long shall justice be denied these infernal villains.

THE ATLANTIC MONTHLY for October has the following table of contents: Saints who have had Bodies; No Time like the Old Time; Coupon Bonds, II.; The Author of "San"; Needle and Garden, X.; John Jordan; Noel; Wilhelm Meister's Apprenticeship, II.; Doctor Johns, IX.; Down the River, Abraham Lincoln; Reviews and Literary Notices, By Ticknor & Fields, Boston.

TO SCHOOL DISTRICT OFFICERS.—Our County Auditor informs us that a number of the clerks of school districts in this county have not yet made their annual reports to be filed on or before Oct. 15th. It should be remembered that unless this annual report is made, school districts will not receive any portion of the general school funds. Let those interested see that this matter is not neglected.

OSCEOLA MILLS.—We this week took a brief jaunt to this lively little town and found it in its usually flourishing condition. The saw mill is thoroughly repaired and will begin running this week. Hank Fifield is doing a good job to the houses which have presented such a dilapidated appearance, demonstrating that all that was needed was a coat of white paint. The citizens propose building, next spring, a Methodist church, and a two-story school house, which will materially add to the town both in reputation and appearance.

LYRICS OF LIFE.—This little volume of one hundred pages, by Robert Browning, is received, and consists of selections from Browning's best poetry.—This is the fourth number of the series of "Companion Poets for the People" that we have received. The design of this series is to present to the people, selections from the best authors, in a cheap, convenient and tasteful manner. Fifty cents a number is the price fixed upon.—The following numbers are now ready, Household Poems, by Longfellow; Songs for all Seasons, by Tennyson; National Lyrics, by Whittier; Lyrics of Life, by Browning.

MAIL CONTRACT.—Mr. C. A. Winslow of this place has purchased of J. Shortall of Stillwater the mail contract between this place and Stillwater. This contract calls for daily service until the 15th proximo and a semi-weekly thereafter during the winter. This semi-weekly service is nothing more than an imposition upon the good people of this upper St. Croix valley, and if the people would unite in the endeavor to have even a tri-weekly service there could be no reasonable doubt of their success. Petitions have been circulated for this purpose every time a change is made in the holders of this contract, but for some reason no petition has ever been forwarded. Let all interested ones unite in an endeavor to have a tri-weekly service throughout the year and it would be easily accomplished.

AUTHOR'S HOME MAGAZINE for November is received. The contents of this number are unusually attractive. Each new number seems to be an improvement. When improvements cease, then we expect Anthur will cease to improve; and not till then.

STILLWATER MESSENGER.—This sheet comes to us in a new dress this week. The body matter is new type throughout and there are other material typographical and editorial changes. A. J. Van Vorhes is the editor. Success to you in your good work, Van.

FOR THE WOODS.—We noticed on our streets yesterday, teams loaded with all the necessities for a winter's campaign against the sturdy pine beyond our frontier. They went up on the Wisconsin side of the St. Croix, and were the van of a long procession of men, oxen, horses and wagons which every fall wends its way northward, to return in the spring after having felled and prepared for market, millions of feet of pine logs, which float from over a hundred miles above us, sometimes as far down the river as Memphis, in search of a suitable market.

OSCEOLA BRASS BAND.—We see by a recent issue of the Polk Co. Press, that the above named institution, upon which the citizens of that delectable burgh had lavished such high hopes of future greatness is in danger of an untimely death, for want of a person possessing sufficient "wind capacity" to blow the "big bass horn." The Press at this critical juncture, with a disinterestedness charming to witness, suggests one of our humblest citizens, whom extreme modesty forbids us to name, as a candidate for the imperishable honor conferred by this high "posish" among the "Osceola Blowers." This individual while not altogether insensible to the immense advantages that might accrue to him by such an arrangement, cannot be induced to appear thus diametrically opposite to the heartfelt hopes and ambitious desires, which he knows the Press editor himself possesses for this very desirable opportunity to display his truly huge "blowing" capacity which long years of continual application have cultivated to such a high degree of excellence, and it is to be hoped that the prime movers in the aforementioned laudable endeavor, will as an apology for past remissness immediately show their thorough appreciation of the eminent qualifications of our cotemporary by giving him this important office, and thus while doing him justice and fulfilling his most ardent wishes, give new impetus to the much desired movement.

PERSONAL.—We yesterday received a private letter from Rev. E. E. Edwards, late chaplain of the Seventh Regiment. He has recently been appointed Professor of Natural Sciences at St. Charles (Mo.) University, an institution under the patronage of the M. E. Church. "It was founded," he writes, "in 1834, and has an endowment of $25,000, with no indebtedness. The founders were some liberal gentlemen of St. Louis and St. Charles, who in 1837 leased or granted the college to the M. E. Church on condition that they would add $100,000 to the endowment and sustain in it a school of a college grade. In 1844 it passed into the hands of the Church South. When Gen. Lyon came up the Missouri River the Professors all ran off, together with some of the Curators, since which time the M. E. Church left the college to its fate. The old Curators—the original board—then stepped in and took back the property, the right to it having been forfeited by the M. E. Church South. They now propose to reorganize it, &c." Prof. Edwards further stated that if it was not for ague, he would enjoy the place very much. He writes that St. Charles is an older place than St. Louis, having been settled 140 years ago. The surroundings are beautiful, and the city itself has about 5,000 inhabitants. Most of the old residents are selling out to new comers, who are principally Germans—so that the old population has nearly changed.

We are glad to hear of the success of Prof. Edwards, and as he is widely known and much liked here, we print the above for the information of his friends. —Pioneer.

REAL ESTATE SALE.—Isaac Reese to John P. Carlson, 40 acres in Franconia for $200.

SOLD OUT.—We have heard it rumored on our streets, that the owners of our neighboring village, The St. Croix Manufacturing and Improvement Company have sold or design selling their interest in that town to the St. Croix Mining Company. "A rose by any other name, &c." Go it, Caleb, you'll have a city there yet.

RIVER NEWS.—The St. Croix still sustains a good navigable stage of water. Any of the Mississippi packets could run to this place without the slightest difficulty.

The Alvira arrives at our levee semi-occasionally, with fair loads freight and passengers.

A stranger in these parts, the Tiger, paid our town a visit on Wednesday.—It is a unique craft and judging from its wild appearance does not belie its name.

FOR SALE.
I propose to sell out my entire Photographic stock and Apparatus and if desired to learn any person the trade.

HOUSE AND FARM.

JELLY CAKE.—One cup of sweet cream, one of sugar, one teaspoon of cream of tartar, one of soda, two eggs, flour to thicken. Spread thin, putting jelly between the layers when done.

JELLY ROLLS.—Four eggs, one cup of sugar, one cup of flour, half teaspoonful of soda, one of cream of tartar, flavor to suit the taste. Stir well, spread thin, bake quickly. When done, turn out on a cloth, spread on the jelly and roll up.

CURE FOR PRICKLY HEAT.—Mix wheat bran with soft, milk-warm water and bathe in it two or three times a day. It used freely upon the appearance of irritating eruptions, and in case it has already opened, frequent applications of the bran water will certainly cure it.—Journal of Health.

DRYING HERBS.—Herbs for drying for future use should be cut just about the time they are coming into flower. Dry them in the shade, and under sufficiently dry to put away, tie them in bunches and hang in cool sheds, or place them loosely between papers, and stow away in cupboards or drawers—the last mode is by far the cleanest and most approved plan with the best housekeepers. Some, indeed, powder the leaves at once after drying, and put away in bags ready for use.

BLACKBERRY CORDIAL.—This is invaluable in a family of children, both as a preventive and cure for diarrhoea and weakness of the bowels.

To a half bushel of well ripened and washed berries, add a quarter of a pound of allspice, and two ounces, each, of cinnamon and cloves made fine. Simmer the whole until well done, strain through a flannel and add to each pint one pound of loaf sugar. Seal or boil thoroughly again, and when cooling add a half gallon of the best whiskey or brandy.

Dose.—For an adult half a gill; for a child, teaspoon full.

How to SELECT FLOUR.—First, look at the color; if it is white, with a slight yellowish or straw-colored tint, buy it. If it is very white, with a bluish cast, or with white specks in it, refuse it. Second, examine its adhesiveness; wet and knead a little of it between your fingers, if it works soft and sticky it is poor. Third, throw a little lump of dry flour against a dry, smooth, perpendicular surface; if it falls like powder it is bad. Fourth, squeeze some of the flour between your hands; if it retains the shape given by the pressure, that, too, is a good sign. Flour that will stand all these tests, it is safe to buy. These modes are given by our flour dealers, and they pertain to a matter that concerns every body—the staff of life.—Gen. Farmer.

On Luncheons, the worst are those taken a short time previous to the hour of rest in the evening. It is the sure way to produce restlessness and sleeplessness at night, and dizziness and headache in the morning. It is, indeed, the very worst time in the twenty-four hours for taking food. Late suppers, which are indulged in by many of the wealthy and luxurious, are pre-eminent in the list of indulgences that shorten life. "Carlen observes that he had conversed with many persons who had lived to be a hundred years of age, and they all declared to him that they had made it a rule to eat little at night." It is like loading your horse with a heavy additional burden after he has been toiling all day, and is weakened by fatigue; or like filling up the mill hopper, when the water is nearly run out.

SUMMER FRUITS.—Aids promote the separation of the bile from the blood, which is then passed from the system, thus preventing fevers, the prevailing diseases of summer. All fevers are "bilious," that is, the bile is in the blood. Whatever is antagonistic of fever is cooling. It is a common saying that fruits are cooling, and also berries of ever description. It is because the acidity which they contain aids in separating the bile from the blood. Hence the great yearnings for greens, and lettuce, and salads, in the early spring, these being eaten with vinegar; hence, also the taste for something sour—for lemonade—on an attack of fever. But this being the case, it is easy to see that we nullify the good effects of fruits and berries in proportion as we eat them with sugar, or even sweet milk or cream. If we eat them in their natural state—fresh, ripe, perfect—it is almost impossible to eat too many—to eat enough to hurt us—especially if we eat them alone not taking any liquid with them whatever.

Cows that Hold up Milk.—Mr. Johnson says, can be cured if they will drink sour milk. After drinking, and as soon as they begin to lick the pail, they will give down freely. He has tried it with cows that would give about two thirds the proper quantity, retaining the other portion. Then he gives them the milk to drink, and waits until they begin to lick the pail, when he has no trouble in obtaining the remainder. He has tried meal, salt, and various things, but found nothing to produce such an effect as sour milk.—N. Y. Tribune.

Every-day Life.

I walked home with some boys from the school to day. John Brown said he could not understand his teacher at all. He (the teacher) kept ding-donging in to their ears the importance of thinking.

"And now," said John, scowling, as if a knot had been tied in his forehead, "I cannot think—I don't know what to think about."

Ah! That is it, John Brown—aye, all John Browns, and John Smiths, and John Joneses! You cannot think unless you have something to think about. And your teacher who does not know enough to teach you to think and set in motion your suggestive powers, is no teacher at all. The matter contained in books is not always the most suggestive of thought. Keep your eyes open out of doors. Take the knife from your pocket, and tell me what you can of it—not only of its construction, where it is made, but of the materials of which it is composed. Its blade is steel—how is steel made?—what can you say of the different kinds of steel. Its handle is pearl, or tortoise, or some other substance. What can you tell yourself concerning these substances, and the manner in which they are prepared, for the material uses in which they are employed. The caps are brass—what do you know of it—of its value and nature and use relative to other metallic substances.

Thinking! Why I know many men whom I meet daily, who appear to be in a brown study, but who do not observe, as they walk their farms, among their flocks and herds, or through their fields, anything whatever. They see the grass spring up, but they think nothing concerning it, except that it will by and by, make fodder. If it is green it is little matter—they do not know why the sunlight falling on it makes it look green to them, while the daisy in its midst looks golden.

Thinking solves nothing unless it is accompanied by acts, experiments and observation. And this is the reason why Madison Meditation, yonder, accomplishes nothing beyond the most brilliant air castles and visionary projects and theories. He thinks but does nothing. He spends time enough trying to explain the method of his reasoning to prove its falsity a thousand times if he would attempt demonstration, or would reason from facts which he might observe. Don Juan Doer, however, says, "I'll try and see." His theories are put to a practical test, and thereby he gains knowledge by thinking and experimenting. No farmer who shuts himself up in his office grows corn more economically, if he does not get out into the field and observe the modes upon which he purposes to improve. We must watch and work as well as think, John Brown! Having facts, search for reasons for facts, but do not hope to reach them simply by thinking. You must experiment and observe the relations of these facts to others. You will get on in knowledge if your thinking takes this course,—in the kind of knowledge which is power. Lead Pencil.

Superior City.

Robert Dodge, writing in the Continental for April, of his route from "The Great Lakes to St. Paul," says of Superior City:

By its pretentious name, great distance, and our expectations, it had risen to much importance in our imagination, but the actual scene presented a wide contrast. A large town, of metropolis on a poor harbor, without interior resources or communications, had been hastily projected. It is called the head of ocean navigation, and the terminus of many proposed but as yet imaginary railroads. While the titles to all the land are still in litigation, the wilderness shades its streets, and, saving the rare arrival of the Indian mail carrier on snow shoes, during six months of intense cold, they are isolated from all human life. Its grand prospectus, some five years before, had drawn there about three thousand people; and soon afterward, starved and disappointed, nearly all, save perhaps five hundred, had deserted. About two miles offstreet, planked from the mud, with frame dwellings had been constructed, and they had already attained the first municipal blessing—taxes—to the total of $15,000, payable by this feeble remnant of settlement, mainly of abandoned dwellings. Should the railroads so frequently surveyed and designed to terminate here be really built, Superior City may see, to some extent, in future years, somewhat of that prosperity which its projectors, blinded by their hopes, had thought already realized.

Few positions are more picturesque. In front, the shores of Portland and Minnesota rise in beautiful grandeur, and the bay and harbor, although imperfect, are richly wooded and very fertile; while, all the while, from La Pointe, the lake's waters, lying among the mountains, shadowed by their heavy foliage remind one much of the scenery of the Lower Danube. This ghost of a city had not much left of interest, and we passed our day in arranging for the journey across the country southward to St. Paul.

NEW SKIRT FOR 1865-6. The Greatest Invention of the Age in Hoop Skirts.

J. W. Bradley's New Patent Duplex Elliptic (or double) Spring Skirt. This invention consists of Duplex (or two) Elliptic Pure Refined Steel Springs, ingeniously Braided Tightly and Firmly together edge to edge, making the longest, most flexible Elastic and Durable Spring ever used. They seldom Bend or Break like the Single Springs, and consequently Preserve their Perfect and Beautiful Shape Twice as Long as Single Spring Skirts that have or can be made.

The wonderful flexibility and great Comfort and pleasure to any Lady wearing the Duplex Elliptic Skirt will be experienced particularly in all Crowded Assemblies, in cars, Carriages, Railroad Cars, Church Pews, Arm Chairs, for Promenade and House Dress, as the Skirt can be folded, when in use, to occupy a small place as easily and conveniently as a Silk or Muslin Dress. A Lady having enjoyed the pleasure, comfort, and great convenience of wearing the "Duplex Elliptic Steel Spring Skirt" for a single day, will never afterwards willingly dispense with their use. For Children, Misses, and Young Ladies, they are Superior to all others.

The hoops are covered with 2 ply double twisted thread and will wear twice as long as the Single Spring covering which is used on all Single Steel Hoop Skirts. NOVELLUS FAMILY

SEWING MACHINES

Will Stitch, Hem, Fell, Tuck, Cord

QUILTS AND EMBROIDER BEAUTIFULLY.

It will with the finest needle and thread, run from perfect work on the finest fabrics, over the roughest, best, for cloth, and suitable with no change of needle, thread, or tension. It will use coarse cotton, then silk and wool. It runs easier faster and stiller than any other machine. It sews a flat even and elastic seam, differing from every other stitch, each loop being twisted by the rotating hook.

And drawing the twist into the goods, thus securing a feeling every stitch, so that the seam will bear to be cut at frequent intervals and in that case even the seam is warranted NOT TO RIP in wear and under all circumstances to "survive the washboard." Old worn out family garments, bosoms, pants dresses, &c. have been entrusted to committees at Falls where was the greatest competition and to this stitch premiums have been awarded for its SUPERIORITY, DURABILITY, EASINESS, and BEAUTY. A Patented Device prevents the possibility of the machine being run in the wrong direction, or the balance wheel ever working off touching the frame.

THE NEEDLE CANNOT BE SET WRONG.

This machine is the great trouble of other machines.

No Breaking of Needles.

The blade of the needle is less than three fourths of an inch long, and is straight.

THE NEEDLE AND FEELERS CAN NEVER BE SET WRONG.

Any one may adjust them in the dark. The hem may be of any width. No other manner of doing it like this. It turns the hem on the right or under side as you want it.

It will not drop stitches. As the needle is always on right, the blade short and straight, does not vibrate, like longer ones.

It runs by steam at 200 stitches per minute—other machines at only 40 to 120 with safety. They are manufactured with Mathematical Precision.

Hence each part is interchangeable and can be readily changed in case of accident. The machine cannot be jammed, there will not get out of order. It will last a generation, if properly cared for. None elsewhere need it. It is the best machine ever offered to the public.

It received the Gold Medal of the American Institute—the first premium for

THE BEST SEWING MACHINE.

at the great New England Fair—the Vermont State Fair—the Pennsylvania State Fair—the Indiana State Fair—and 23 other Fair Premiums at the meeting of Mechanical and Scientific Societies all over the world, are among its trophies in 1864.

It is now the great Leading Family Sewing Machine.

ALL OVER THE WORLD.

Price of Machines, with domestic, finer, gauge, all can, extra needles, full directions, &c. from $20 to $100.

On Wednesday last a dear brother, after a brief but severe illness, "passed over to the majority." So much of our time was devoted to him that our columns can but show the want of editorial management. We beg the indulgence of our readers, for the present issue, and will endeavor by another week to regale matters so as to enable us to publish the usual amount of reading matter.

Notes for Governor [?]

Mr. Lincoln had been inaugurated under the protection of loyal cannon, and had declared his intention to hold and maintain the forts and national authority of the United States—a determination in which he was upheld by all the loyal masses of the North, when on the 27th of March Senator John C. Breckinridge, an intimate personal friend of Henry M. Rice, afterwards a rebel general and finally a rebel Secretary of War, offered the following reasonable resolution in the interest of the rebellion and in recognition of the independence of the "Confederate States."

Resolved, That the Senate recommend and advise the removal of the United States troops from the limits of the Confederate States.

In the debate upon this resolution Mr. Rice said he was "in favor of the resolution as offered by the senator from Kentucky." He objected, however, to giving up possession of the Tortugas and Key West. All the rest he was willing to surrender to the rebels. Upon this subject he used the following treasonable language:

Mr. Rice—Mr. President, I am in favor of peace. If the rebel States are determined to remain out, I am in favor of their going in peace. I would go further than this. I would give them the forts and arsenals within their limits. IF THEY ASK MORE, I WOULD DIVIDE THE NAVY WITH THEM.

IF THEY WANTED MORE, I WOULD RELEASE THEM FROM THE PUBLIC DEBT, I WOULD EVEN GIVE THEM MORE THAN THAT.

ANYTHING FOR PEACE.

This "anything-for-peace" man, who was so eager to destroy the Union, that he was willing to give any price to see it accomplished, who was so zealous for the establishment of the "Southern Confederacy" that he offered to fit it out for house-keeping with federal forts and cannon and navies and everything they might desire, is now before the people of Minnesota as a candidate for Governor on the strength of his loyalty to the Union. The people of Minnesota have a little outstanding account to settle with him, and they will not be slow to improve the opportunity he has given them to exact their due.

They have already presented their Bill to him. It is the gallant, the honest, the noble, the chivalrous Bill, Mansfield—God bless him—as generous and brave a soul as ever beat in human bosom.—St. Paul Press.

A keen observer of human nature has said: "You deceive me once and it is your fault, but if you do it again it is mine." Up to the commencement of the war, the support rendered the slaveholders by the Democratic party of the North, convinced the people of the South that the attempt to coerce them could not be successful, for the reason that the Democrats would not permit it. The Democratic leaders did all they could to confirm this expectation by declaring coercion unconstitutional, advocating a concession to the insurgents of all they asked, and finally threatening a fire in the rear of our armies if they should attempt to march South. Eminent men, like ex-President Pierce, wrote to public men at the South, assuring them that when the attempt was made to coerce the South, Abolition blood would flow in the streets of the North. The South confidently relied upon these promises, and expected aid from the Northern Democrats, as they well might. But the guns fired at Sumpter, and the degradation of the old flag, united the North in defense of the Union, and some of the very men who had promised the South aid, sought commissions in the Federal army. When the first great patriotic fervor had subsided, some of the Democrats did work vigorously to redeem their promise, but their efforts only prolonged the war, multiplied the sacrifice of life, and increased the public debt, without saving the rebel cause.

The South was thoroughly deceived, for the masses of the Democratic party proved patriotic. One would have thought that after so cruel a deception, entailing such serious consequences, the South would never again repose confidence in the Democratic leaders. But the latter are beginning to try the "old game" over again. They are holding out to the South the promise that if they can only get in office again, the past will be so thoroughly obliterated that the Southern people will not even be the most remote allusion, be made to feel that there was ever a traitor among them. They assure the South that if the Democratic party is put in power, there will be no penalties to treason, and that a traitor will, in all respects, be held just as good as a loyal man. The South, forgetful that it has once been cruelly deceived by the same parties, is again putting its confidence in these assurances, and will again be doomed to disappointment. The Republican party controls the National Administration, both branches of Congress, the Supreme Court, and nearly every Northern State. By the time the Democrats can attain power, the political attitude of the South will be unalterably fixed, and it will be impossible for the Democrats to redeem even the smallest of the Democratic promises it is now making. In listening to them, the South is deliberately injuring its own cause. It must make terms with those who have power and not with those who have not. If it fails to appreciate this fact now, and acts accordingly, it will have all the more cause for future unavailing regret.

The Thirty-Ninth Congress.

The thirty-ninth Congress, which meets in December next, will have a decided Union majority in both houses, whether the representatives of the late rebel States are admitted or not.

If Senators from all the States are admitted, and all those yet to be elected are Democrats, the Senate will stand, Unionists 47; Democrats 27, leaving a Union majority of 20.

The following are the most favorable figures that can be made for the Democracy in the House of Representatives:

Twenty-four Northern States have elected Unionists 140 Dem. 61
To elect Northern States 2 4
Eleven Southern States have elected 7 4
To elect eleven Southern States 4 4

Total, Union majority 59 in a House of 212 members.

The three members yet to be elected in northern states are to fill vacancies, one from Massachusetts, one from Maryland and one from Nevada. These will doubtless be filled by Union men. If, however, Democrats should be chosen, there would still be over 40 Union majority in Congress.

There is little, therefore, in the character of the next Congress, on which the copperheads can found any hopes for the success of their schemes.—State Journal.

The secretary of the navy has caused to be prepared a handsome copper plate document as a discharge paper for all volunteer naval officers honorably discharged. A finely executed engraving, representing a steam frigate, a monitor, and sailing vessels, ornaments the heading; while the body of the paper sets forth that the war for the preservation of the Union having, under the beneficent guidance of Almighty God, been brought to a successful termination, a reduction of the naval forces becomes necessary; and, having served faithfully in the navy, he is hereby honorably discharged, with the thanks of the department. Each is signed by Secretary Welles.

We would give the right of suffrage at once to four classes of negroes. First, and emphatically, to every negro who has borne arms in the cause of the United States; second, to every negro who owns real estate; third, to every negro who can read and write; and, fourth, to every negro who had belonged to any religious organization or church for five years before the war. These points would cover every one to vote, and they would insure in every negro voter a spirit of manhood as well as discipline; some practical shrewdness, intellectual development, moral consciousness, and culture. It is well worth the consideration of the president whether something like this should not be included in the scheme of reconstruction.—New York Herald.

The Copperheads of Sandusky, Ohio, undertook to seduce a soldier from the Republican ranks by nominating him for office. But they offered their bribe, to the army man and got the following stinging kick for their pains:

EDITOR REGISTER:—Whereas, without my knowledge or consent, the Copperheads of Erie county, in their Convention at Huron, September 22d, did there present my name as candidate for County Recorder, and did actually elect to give me the nomination; therefore, I hereby declare, and request my friends (if they bear me any love) to make it known that the proceedings of said Convention, as regards my name, are wholly repudiated by me. On what grounds their expectation of my accepting of the nomination was founded, I am at a loss to conjecture. If I had remained at home during the last four years of rebellion, fighting the government by word and ballot, plotting the death of friends and the overthrow of liberty, if my name was Vallandigham, Booth, or Wirtz, they might have had a pretense, but I don't dwell in that squad; I have been a soldier, I have seen Belle Isle and Libby Prison, and as they (the Democrats) did not yield their support in time of need, I reject their love now.

ANOTHER STATE COMING.—Colorado has intimated the new State Constitution by an overwhelming vote. The southern counties of the Territory, which have heretofore opposed State organization, declined to vote at all at the recent election. The effect of this is that the majority of the State is much larger than anticipated. All that is now required is an act of Congress admitting the new State into the Union.

State News.

Oats are now selling in this vicinity at twenty-five cents per bushel, wheat at fifty, barley at fifty, and potatoes at twenty.—Le Sueur Statesman.

The receipts of the Minnesota State Fair are set down at about $8,000—a large sum considering the small number of entries. There was a large attendance however, attracted mainly by the presence of Mr. Greeley, and this swelled the receipts.

The Chicago Tribune states that one hundred barrels of Minnesota winter wheat flour were shipped from that city, a few days ago, for Boston, to go through without change of cars. This is the first shipment of flour ever made from Chicago to Boston without breaking bulk.

The Minnesota Baptist State Convention will hold its next annual meeting at Rochester on the 27th and 28th inst.

By order of the President John Pryland, or's execution at Fort Snelling is postponed till the 27th inst. The prisoner is in hopes of pardon and remission of sentence.

The Wabash Herald says the farmers in that vicinity are harvesting their sorgho and Imphee. Mr. Davis has eight acres of Imphee which is yielding about 150 gallons per acre. He also has eight acres of sorgho which he estimates will yield 200 gallons to the acre.

Reminiscences.

Why talk about sleeping a wink when people in their sleep never wink?

The conspirator, Dr. Mudd, recently made an attempt to escape from Dry Tortugas by concealing himself in the coal bunkers of the steamer Thos. Scott. He was discovered, however, and set at hard labor wheeling sand. The quartermaster of the Scott has been arrested for aiding him to conceal himself.

It is stated that no flag of a Vermont regiment was ever in the keeping of the enemy during the war.

A jeweler at Saratoga has a gold coin about the size of a half eagle, which is valued at $2,000. It is of the time of Philip Macedon, father of Alexander the Great.

All our readers may not be aware of the origin of the phrase "split tickets." The ancient Athenians used oyster-shells for ballots, and their tickets were invariably "split" even when regular nominations were made.

The newest thing out is "plumpers," for hollow cheeked damsels. The plumper is made of porcelain, pear-shaped in form, flat on one side, and bulging out on the other. They fit the inside of the cheeks, giving a round plump appearance; hence doubtless their name.

A MEMPHIS paper relates the case of a southern female refugee, who had only one faded calico dress, which she wore up on her back. A benevolent gentleman had a collection taken up for her which realized thirteen dollars. She at once repaired to a dry goods store, where she paid thirteen dollars for a lace collar.

LET soldiers returned from glorious battle-fields, when appealed to vote the Democratic ticket, ask who denounced the war as tyrannical—who talked about invading the South—who called President Lincoln a widow-maker—one of hell's outsiders, a tyrant and a murderer?

The old relations of 1850 to 1861 between the associated press and the Southern press, have been again resumed, and there is now a daily interchange of Northern, Western and Southern news, directly from the central office in New York with every daily journal in the United States.

It should be thoroughly understood, everywhere, that a recent law of Congress disfranchises all persons who ran away from the draft and became deserters. It matters not whether they only removed from one district to another, or skeddaddled all the way to Canada—they are deserters in either case, and liable to the penalty of disfranchisement. There are not a few of this sort of sneaks in every district. It is a simple duty which every loyal citizen owes to the country, to inform against them. Let a sharp eye be kept out for them.

The third race was a stake race between John Ulrich, first runner, and Charles Seymour, of the Boston Post, for a prize of $1,000, which Ulrich won. Seymour allowed Ulrich to win the race, and received One Hundred Dollars. The rich designed to win in a moment, and money out of the transaction; but the crowd were too well posted to expose their money, and the only man who made "game" out of the race was Seymour, who allowed Ulrich to win the second and third heats with little effort—the 100 yards having been run inside of seventeen minutes. The contestants were dressed in "savage" style, with sky blue, and pea-green moire-antique breeches, and buff-tights. The race was evidently designed to exhibit "bottom more than speed. After the race, both of the contestants were carefully groomed, and blanketed, and conveyed on the shoulders of the excited and delighted populace of the Traveler's Home, where Benjamin Liverman, Esq., addressed the racers and presented the victor with a beautiful wreath, to which was attached a handsome card bearing the motto—"Punish. Enemies—Reward Friends."

AUTUMN LEAVES.
From the elm-tree in the meadow,
By the willow,
And the mighty oak and chestnut,
On the hill,
From the falling leaves of autumn,
Floating still;
Through the wide extending forest,
When the winds no longer rave,
They are dropping, dropping, dropping,
Over the land and over the wave,
From the green boughs where the summer
Tresses hung,
And the young twigs, where the robins
Perch'd and sang,
Floating down into the grave.
And when'er I see them floating
Without sound,
From the long and pendant branches
All around,
When I see them turn and scatter'd
On the ground,
Bitter thoughts arise within me.
And my heart unconscious grieves:
And of fall and autumn I remember,
Is the song that memory weaves,
For the heart that thrilled and yearned
To my own,
And the voice that answered sweetly
Every tone,
Now are silent as the leaves.

Funnysims.
A pet lamb is always a cross ram.
Words are women, and deeds are men.
An editor in Iowa has been fined two hundred dollars for hugging a girl in church.
A dog in Boston has been named Quota because he never seems to be full.
A young lady's taking your arm is no certain sign that she will take your hand.
A horse dealer, describing a used-up horse, said he looked "as if he had been editing a daily newspaper."
The "utter" most parts of the earth are supposed to be the parts where there are most women.
"Unripe fruit is dangerous," said an old maid to her young niece. "So is decayed" replied the impudent husky.
At a printer's festival, lately, the following toast was offered: "Woman—second only to the press in the dissemination of news!"
A minister, putting his hand upon a young girl's shoulder exclaimed: "My son, I believe the devil has got hold of you."
"I believe he has, too," was the reply.
A young lady objected to a negro's carrying her across a mud-hole, because she thought herself too heavy. "Lors, miss," said Sambo, imploringly, "I've carried whole barrels of sugar."
"What do you ask for that article?" inquired an old gentleman of a pretty shop girl. "Fifteen shillings." "Ain't you a little dear?" "Why," she replied, blushing, "all the young men tell me so."
A lady correspondent of the La Crosse Republican defines the "noble and scientific game of billiards" as "pushing overgrown marbles around a table with a bean pole."
An awkward man, attempting to carve a goose, dropped it on the floor. "There now!" exclaimed his wife, "we've lost our dinner." "Oh no, my dear!" answered he "it's safe. I have got my foot on it."
"Do you know," said a cunning Yankee to a Jew. "that they hang Jews and jackasses together at Portland?" "Indeed! brother, then it's well you and I are not there."
"Mother," said Jennie Spray, to her venerable maternal relative, "Sam Flint wants to come courting me to-night." "Well," he said: "Perhaps I may as well; my wife is probably already as mad as she can be."
"Why do you set a cup of coffee on the chair, Mr. Jones," said a worthy landlady one morning at breakfast. "It is so weak ma'am I thought I would let it rest," replied Jones.
"Papa," said Mr. Brown's youngest son the other day, "can't I go to the circus?" "No my pet," affectionately replied Mr. B.—, "but if you are a good boy, I will take you to see your grandmother's grave this afternoon."

WILLCOX & GIBBS
SEWING MACHINES
FAMILY

Will Sew, Hem, Fell, Tuck, Cord
QUILT AND EMBROIDER BEAUTIFULLY.
It will sew with the finest needle and thread, run from perfect work on the finest fabric, over the longest button, over cloth and cowhide, with no change of needle, thread or tension. It will sew canvas cotton, linen silk and velvet. It runs easier faster and stiller than any other machine. It forms a flat even and elastic seam, differing from every other stitch, each loop being twisted by THE ROTATING HOOK.
and drawing the twist into the goods, thus securing fastening every stitch, so that the seam will bear to be cut at frequent intervals and in that case even the seam is warranted NOT TO RIP in wear and under all circumstances to "survive the washings." Old worn out family garments, bosoms, pants dresses, &c. have been submitted to committees at Fairs where was the greatest competition and to this stitch premiums have been awarded for its SUPERIORITY, DURABILITY, MAINTENANCE, AND BEAUTY. A Patent Device prevents the possibility of the machine being run in the wrong direction, or the balance wheel ever wearing off touching the dress.

THE NEEDLE CANNOT BE SET WRONG.
Thus avoiding the great trouble of other machines.
No Breaking of Needles.
The blade of the needle is less than three fourths of an inch long, and is straight.
THE REAMER AND FEELER CAN NEVER BE SET WRONG.
Any one may adjust them in the dock. The hem may be of any width. No other hemmer of filler is like this. It turns the hem on the right or under side as you want it.
It will not drop stitches. As the needle is always set right, the blade straight and straight, does not vibrate, like longer ones.
It can be sewn at 250 stitches per minute—other machines at only 40 to 120, with effort. The work is perfect and uniform, and the machine cannot be adjusted, hence will not get out of order. It will last a generation, if properly cared for. None who have used it can be persuaded to use any other.
The countless, economy, durability and beauty of its stitch.

WERE NEVER EQUALLED.
ITS SUPERIORITY, ABSOLUTE SILENCE, ANY OF POSITION, IMPROVED AND MODERNITY OF ITS HEM AND FEEL WERE NEVER EQUALLED BY ANY OTHER MACHINE. We can sell twenty boxes or girls from the street, and with three minutes instruction they will set the machine, attach the hemmer, or feeler, and do the work with entire success.
The Press universally pronounces this the Best Family Sewing Machine in the world. Whatever the merits of the other machines, it is no disadvantage to see the Willcox & Gibbs is worth a family use, double that of any other ever offered to the public.
It received the Gold Medal at the American Institute—the first premium for
"The Best Sewing Machine."

at the Great New England Fair—the Vermont State Fair—the Pennsylvania State Fair—the Indiana State Fair—and 21 other first Premiums at the meetings of Mechanical and Scientific Societies all over the world. It is now the great Leading Family Sewing Machine.

ALL OVER THE WORLD.
Price of Machines, with hemmer, feeler, gauge, oil can, extra needles, full directions, &c., from $56 to $120.
Barnum's Self-Sever, for all Sewing Machines, includes the work itself, avoiding the best positive and strain on the eyes.
Price $1.50. Large Discount to Agents.
We take other machines in exchange. We sell Oil, Cotton, Silk, Twist and Needles for every kind of sewing machine.

The Grovestein Piano Forte still retains its precedence and great popularity, and after undergoing gradual improvements for a period of thirty years, is now pronounced by the musical world to be unsurpassed and even unequalled in richness, volume and purity of tone, durability and cheapness. Our new scale, French action, harp pedal, iron frame, over-strung bass, seven octave, rosewood pianos we are selling cheaper by from $100 to $200 than the same style and finish are sold by any other first class makers in the country. Dealers and all in want of good pianos are invited to send for our Descriptive Catalogue, which contains photographs of our different styles, together with prices. No one should purchase a piano without seeing this Catalogue. Medals, almost without number, have been awarded to the Grovestein Piano, and at the Celebrated World's Fair, though put in competition with others from all parts of Europe and the U. S., it took the highest award. [Established 1853]

Seriously Ill.

We learn that an old resident of this State, Mr. Minn Democracy, is seriously ill and no hopes of his recovery are entertained.

He has been ill ever since the war began, with a disease that baffled all the medical skill of his friends. He is now troubled with attacks of returned soldiers and at times has a rash of nigger to the brain. A convention of doctors was lately called and met in St. Paul to consider his case. They tried to get a returned soldier to nurse him, but the sight of the brass buttons made him furious. They as a last resort recommended his friends to feed him on slops and keep him quiet. They are now doting him on rice, (well cooked by our friend Marshall) and he is sedulously kept out of sight. But the poor old fellow is fast falling and his most sanguine friends do not expect him to live through next month. So let him die. "Wherefore not? It was the lot of millions and must be the fate of myriads more."

Even since the late war began we have had a class of men in our midst who confidently looked for the triumph of armed treason over Truth and Right. These men denounced our late President as a blood thirsty monster, they heaped upon his head execrations fit for a Nero or a Caligula.

They opposed every movement made by the government for its maintenance, refused their aid and shirked their duty when called upon. And now they ask the support of those who preserved this endangered Union and rendered certain the stability of this vilified "corrupt and tyrannical" Government. They assure the soldiers (now that they no longer disgrace God's own image by wearing the blue,) they are their best truest friends, and that they always have been!

Oh the short sightedness of these seers. They can't see it. Very unfortunate for the Democracy, they have been able to buy and to read the papers, and they well remember these, who thought, that they so far stultified themselves by putting on the blue, that they were incapable of casting an intelligent vote.

We suppose Mr. Rice and his friends will adduce their efforts to shorten the war "on any terms" as an evidence of their friendship. They wanted to shorten their servitude.

But unhappy the boys don't know whether it was that or a desire to throw them out of a job, that they liked, whipping rebels. Anyhow the boys will show them that know how to vote and to vote right, and will give them to understand that they hate a rebel, now as much as in the days of carnage. A wasp is a very small insect but when it gets up a man's trousers it can give a sting that will make a very large man utter some very large words and so it is with these wasps. The soldiers never can forget the cowardly way in which they stung them while in the field.

By the way, how many of these blatant friends to soldiers ever kept their promises and supported the soldiers' families while they were gone. The soldiers have sworn vengeance on the copperheads and the seventh of November will show how well the Minnesota heroes keep their vows. Ted.

What Horace Greeley Thinks of the St. Croix Country.

Editorial Correspondence of the N. Y. Tribune.

ON THE UPPER MISSISSIPPI, Oct. 1st, 1865. —The Minnesota State Fair, held last week at Minneapolis, was not a full exhibit of the products of the State, and, indeed, could not be in the present infancy of her railroad system. Its chief value to strangers lay in the evidence it afforded of the climate and agricultural possibilities of the adjacent region. Very good Grapes of the hardier popular varieties thoroughly ripe and sweet; superb tomatoes, luxuriant egg-plants, gigantic watermelons, &c., are easily grown here, but the grape-vines require protection (by covering) from the extreme cold of winter. The largest squashes exhibited weighed over 90 pounds, and were of good quality; and Minnesota is justly proud of potatoes. Of quality unsurpassed, the attested yield seems enormous. I am assured that a bushel has in some instances been dug from four hills, and that 400 bushels per acre is not an exaggeration as attested by the ruling price—20 cents per bushel, when corn is 80 and when potatoes are selling at La Crosse, (Wis.) for 50 cents per bushel. I believe money could be made by buying and shipping them hence by the boat load.

Since the Fair closed, I have hastily visited the St. Croix region, dividing Minnesota from Wisconsin—or rather, so much of it as skirts the beautiful Lake St. Croix, thirty miles long by one, or two wide, which links the St. Croix river with the Mississippi. This region should all belong to Minnesota. And there is an agitation begun for the transfer, making the Chippewa instead of the St. Croix the boundary. The intermediate district has little or no intercourse with Madison or Milwaukee, having some 300 miles to travel to reach either, while St. Paul, the capital of Minnesota is just at hand. If the transfer could be effected, and the two projects of Railroad connection between the Upper Mississippi and Lake Superior be thereby fused into one and pushed ahead, it would give a new impetus and a better development to a most important region.

Pine lumber first attracted Eastern enterprise, to this quarter some twenty years ago. One company of Maine capitalists bought 150,000 acres of pine on the Mississippi and its tributaries above the Falls, creating at Minneapolis what are now probably, the most effective saw-mills in the world.

Lumbering is a game, and of course a poor business. The years 1863 and '64 were intensely dry, and the streams so low that many logs could not be run out. This season has been wet, and logs are superabundant. On the St. Croix, they came down in such profusion as to form a "jam" sixty feet deep at Taylors Falls, ruining some of the weaker owners. Like all other hazardous pursuits, this attracts thousands by its possibilities of sudden wealth—possibilities "which are seldom translated into realities. The poor lumberman fails to get out his logs promptly, and is made bankrupt by the delay or he gets them out, saws and runs them, only to find the market so glutted with boards that he cannot sell them at his liabilities. Only a great capital and shrewd, far-seeing management can ride safely the wild billows which sweep across the lumberman's course; and this region will breathe freer when its last pine tree is cut, run, sawed, rafted and sold.

For wheat is a better staple; and one that gives a more ready and gainful employment to industry. And I am more and more impressed with Wheat growing capacities which are here just beginning to be developed. At Hudson, at Prescott, and other points on the Wisconsin side, as well as at Hastings and all landings in Minnesota, the cry is Wheat! Wheat! Hudson is a pretty Eastern village, strung along the Wisconsin shore of Lake St. Croix, and the shire town of St. Croix County, whose staple is wheat. Wheat-laden wagons surrounded the storehouses at an early hour yesterday morning, awaiting the turn of each to have its load weighed, emptied and paid for; and they still swarmed there when we left at nightfall. Every steamboat goes down the river with all the Wheat on board she will take, and a couple of Wheat-laden barges made fast to her sides. Little villages of three to six storehouses talk of shipping their Half Million bushels each. The crop cannot nearly all be threshed out this Fall—in fact, some of it stands in the shock; nor could it be brought away, if ready, before the river freezes; but I shall be disappointed if ten million bushels do not pass La Crosse going southward and eastward of the crop of 1865. Yields of 30, 35, and 40 bushels per acre, are frequently reported, while I can hear of no failure anywhere; and I firmly believe that Minnesota must average at least 27 bushels per acre, and then be beaten at least three bushels by Northwestern Wisconsin.

The St. Croix region is quite adequately timbered and is becoming more so as the fires are limited by roads, clearings, pasturage. The timber and prairie of all this region are of about equal area; the young wood being mainly burr, red and black oak, which a little judicious trimming would cause to grow twice as fast as it does. Even without this, it is, on the whole, increasing.

Unimproved land is held at $5 to $10 per acre, though some may be bought for $3 in localities remote from civilization. The energetic farmer who can bring in or buy a good strong team, with good implements of husbandry and the means of subsisting his family till next winter, ought to grow wheat enough meantime, on forty acres of prairie, to pay for a small farm. And that farm he may buy on credit, out at a higher price than would command it in cash.

It is October, and no frost yet in all this region. I hear of corn planted in July which is ripe, though not large. I see none that frost can hurt. Tomato vines as green as in August. Of course, this is an unusual season; but corn is as safe though not so large a crop here as in Illinois or Iowa. Wheat, I judge, will always be safer and better.

In taking leave of the Upper Mississippi, with grateful appreciation of the generous kindness of her people, with enlarged conceptions of her resources and advantages, and with sanguine anticipations of her rapid growth in population and wealth, I note the general robust health of her inhabitants as her best recommendation. I have heard no person cough, among the many thousands I have met since I passed up the river a week ago, and have not heard an ague even hinted at. If any one seeks a country wherein he may reasonably hope to work hard without excessive fatigue, eat heartily without incurring dyspepsia, enjoy good health and attain a hale old age, I can heartily commend to him the region of the Upper Mississippi. EDITOR'S TROUBLES.—An eastern editor says that a man in New York got himself into trouble by marrying two wives. A western editor replies by assuring his contemporary that a good many men had done the same thing by marrying one. A northern editor retorts that quite a number of his acquaintances found trouble enough by barely promising to marry, without going any farther. A southern editor says that a friend of his was bothered enough when simply found in company with another man's wife.

A vein of coal several feet thick has been discovered in the ravine a short distance this side of Fort Ridgely. The specimens exhibited are of good quality, and it is thought the vein is an extensive one. Col. Pfander, in command at the Fort, has set a force of soldiers at work to make explorations. The vein referred to is within a mile of the Fort, and therefore is on the reservation.

The last wonderful discovery made, is that by a Frenchman, that electricity applied to a certain small apparatus, repels rain, and he places that electrical apparatus in his cane, which he holds above his head, when the rain pours off in all directions. The people of the town in which he lives, gaze at him, it is said, with a sort of awe, as he walks in the midst of the rain without being wetted. The days of umbrellas are gone.

An extraordinary match of carrier pigeons recently took place at Brussels. Not less than 588 of these winged messengers, which had been sent to Toulouse for the purpose, were released there at half-past four on Saturday morning last to contend for prizes amounting in number to eighty-two. The first pigeon arrived at Brussels in 14 hours. The distance being 300 leagues, it must have flown at the speed of 22 leagues an hour.

NEW SKIRT FOR 1865-6.

The Greatest Invention of the Age in Hoop Skirts.

J. W. Bradley's New Patent Duplex elliptic (or double) Spring Skirt.

This invention consists of Duplex (or two) Elliptic Pure Refined Steel Springs, ingeniously Braided Tightly and Firmly together to edge, making the toughest, most flexible Elastic and durable Spring ever used. They seldom bend or break like the Single Springs, and consequently preserve their perfect and beautiful shape twice as long as any Single Spring skirt that has or can be made.

The wonderful flexibility and great comfort and pleasure to any Lady wearing the Duplex Elliptic Skirt will be experienced particularly in all Crowded Assemblies, Operas, Carriages, Railroad Cars, Church Pews, Arm Chairs, for Promenade and House Dress, as the Skirt can be folded, when in use, to occupy a small place as easily and conveniently as a Silk or Muslin Dress.

A Lady having enjoyed the pleasure, comfort, and great convenience of wearing the "Duplex Elliptic Steel Spring Skirt" for a single day, will never afterwards willingly dispense with their use. For Children, Nurses, and Young Ladies, they are superior to all others.

The hoops are covered with 2 ply double twisted thread and will wear twice as long as the Single yarn covering which is used on all Single Steel Hoop Skirts. The three bottom rods on every Skirt are all Double Steel, and are double covered to prevent the covering from wearing off the rods when dragging down stairs, stone steps, &c., &c. which they are constantly subject to when in use.

All are made of the new and elegant Corded Tapes, and are the best quality in every part, giving to the wearer the most graceful and perfect Shape possible, and are unquestionably the lightest, most desirable, comfortable and economical Skirt ever made.

HOME INTELLIGENCE.

Morro for the Democratic Nominees.—"Here, Lord I give myself away, 'tis all that I can do."

Burglary.—On Monday night the saloon of Payne Brothers was entered by burglars and rifled of all the change in the money drawer.

Those who have promised to pay their subscription to the REPORTER in wood will please redeem said promise at once.

It is only by the most constant application that our blacksmiths can make the results of their labor equal the demand.

We were pleased to again take by the hand our old time friend Wm. Peck. He has for over three years been a member of a Wisconsin regiment. He looks hearty and rugged.

Minutes of Court.—We regret our inability to give the proceedings of the District Court which was in session here last week. But as the Clerk of Court is absent we cannot obtain them before his return.

Teams for the woods almost every day pass through town, although there will probably not be as many teams put into the woods as formerly, yet from present appearances we should judge that a sufficient quantity will be put in.

Cranberries.—J. D. Ballard has been engaged in purchasing this truly valuable berry. He has already shipped no inconsiderable amount and has quite a quantity on hand at present. We should judge that an investment in cranberries might be a profitable "spec."

Personal.—Levi W. Folsom returned on Tuesday from a protracted visit to the New England States.

Luther Wyckoff and Selah Whiting are both absent after their fall stock of goods. We understand they design purchasing large stocks in anticipation of an extensive trade.

The St. Croix still maintains a very good stage, although for purposes of navigation its water appears to be gradually falling into disuse, and we opine that steamboatmen will eventually find that they have pursued a mistaken policy in not having kept on the trade, better boats and more regularity in their present but semi-occasional arrivals.

Court Week.—The usual excitement attending the Fall term of court is now fairly allayed and matters have again resumed their wonted aspect. We did not learn of any matters of special importance to the public that transpired. There was the inevitable display of legal lore; anxious clients; lawyers lively as fleas; curiosity seekers, and jolly looking jurors perambulating the streets, but now "all is quiet on the Potomac."

Copper.—Workmen are constantly engaged in sinking the shaft at the new mine. We were yesterday shown some specimens of the ore just excavated that were the finest that have ever been obtained in this vicinity. No reasonable doubt can exist as to the presence of copper in sufficient quantities to warrant the investment of capital in the prosecution of this work. Every prospect is at present favorable for the rapid development of this mine.

Good Prospects.—The privilege of the water power at this place controlled by the Hon. Caleb Cushing has been granted to the Chicago Mining and Manufacturing Company and was filed yesterday at the Register's office. This company we learn on undoubted authority is composed of capitalists and practical business men. Mr. Cushing has reserved the right of using the water power on this side of the river while the opposite side is under the control of the company.

It is the intention of the company to make arrangements for an extensive emigration in the spring, when the work of improvement will be commenced. It is not at all improbable that the water power on this side will also be utilized.

Emigration to this State is rapidly on the increase.

Business on the river is good. Boats being crowded with freight and passengers.

New Boats.—Capt Knapp has commenced work on his new boat at Osceola.

Capt. Silas Bradley intends to build a hull for the steamboat Active at the same place. Three boats will be in process of erection there this coming winter.

In our nation the majority rule if they don't prefer to be ruled by designing scoundrels.

Real Estate Sale.—Charles Peterson to John Erickson 100 acres with improvements in Franconia for $630.

We give in another column, to the exclusion of other matter, Horace Greeley's letter relative to the St. Croix Valley and Minnesota at large.

Send this week's paper to your eastern friends and see if it does not give them enlarged views as to the resources of our splendid country.

The new stern wheel steamboat of the LaCrosse line, the Addie Johnson is running in place of the Keokuk. Capt. J. H. Moulton, commanding.

The river is dropping very fast on account of the cold weather. If it continues, our merchants will have difficulty in getting up their goods.

Second Growth Strawberries.—Ripe strawberries were picked on the latter part of last week in the cemetery. Rather late for this tender plant, but a good recommendation for our climate.

Snow.—There was slight fall of snow, the first of the season, on Tuesday night Oct. 24th. Since then we have had a cold rain and weather that has brought into constant use over coats and mittens.

The following telegram from Hon. Ignatius Donnelly, explains itself:

Prescott Oct. 24th 1865.
Editor St. Paul Press:
Please announce that I will not be able to fill my appointments in the St. Croix Valley, as I shall return at once to St. Paul to institute proceedings against the Pioneer for libel.

Preparing for Winter.—This is the season of the year that "tries men's souls" more especially men with families. The cellar has to be banked up—the wood cut—the provisions laid in—stoves and pipe brought from summer hiding places and set up, and as regards this most disagreeable job a cotemporary thus discourseth. Profanity is reprehensible—it is disgusting—it shows ill breeding—it is evidence of a bad disposition, yet we have no hesitation in giving our testimony that a man who holds at arms length a rod or more of stove pipe, and after two dozen unsuccessful attempts to make a connection, and pounding his fingers six or eight times, and spilling soot all over the carpet, and finally having the whole thing fall down and upset the contents of the centre-table.—We say in such a case, if a man won't swear a blue streak, he is the most amiable man in the world, and deserves to have a certificate for good moral character framed in gilt and hung over the head of his bed during his natural existence. The writer hereof pleads "not guilty."

In New Jersey the bachelors are taxed $1 more than the married men. Cheap.

We clip the following specimen reason for the election of H. M. Rice from the St. Peter Advertiser, (Dem.)—"Mr. Marshall is a strong Maine Liquor Law advocate, and if he is elected, he will have a law passed next winter that will be the ruin of distilleries, brewers, hotel and saloon keepers. The only salvation for these men is to walk up in a body and vote for Honorable H. M. Rice."

The following estimate has been made of what our Minnesota farmers have raised for sale the present season.

Wheat—8,000,000 bushels,
Oats—5,000,000 bushels,
Corn—1,000,000 bushels,
Potatoes—1,000,000 bushels.

St. Paul and Superior R. R.—A party of gentlemen recently left St. Paul on a tour of inspection on this route and report as follows as regards its rapid completion:—"While breakfast was being prepared we took a stroll out into the timber, and were surprised to find such excellent timber so near St. Paul. The company intend getting out ties here this winter to lay their track from this city to Wyoming. (20 miles from this place.) A great deal of labor and expense are involved in hauling lumber for the construction of shanties and other purposes so great a distance, and it is the intention of the contractor to have the track laid to Wyoming, a distance of thirty miles, at the very earliest period, and construction trains put upon it. This will greatly decrease the cost and rapidly promote the progress of the road our party expressed their surprise at the amount of work which has already been done on this line, and were highly delighted to find it so. The people of our city and State have very little idea of what is being done in this direction, and from present indications we confidently predict that but two or three years at most will be allowed to pass before the cars will be whistling through this new wilderness to the head waters of Lake Superior.

The Lumber Business.—The steamers Alvira and Adventure took out a large tow of logs on Sunday. We learn from a gentleman connected with the office of the Surveyor of Logs and Lumber, that during the present season one hundred and thirty-nine log rafts have left this port for points below. These rafts averaged 450,000 feet each. In addition to the above, five million feet have been run out in rigging—designed for adjacent markets—making a total, up to this date, of sixty-seven million five hundred and fifty thousand feet. There is yet a large amount of logs in the lake to be rafted.

In addition to the above, fourteen lumber rafts—the lumber manufactured in this city—have been sent on their way rejoicing to southern markets, the avails of which have returned to rejoice the pockets of the manufacturers. These lumber rafts average 800,000 each, making a total of 11,200,000 feet of sawed lumber—or a grand total shipped during the present season of seventy-eight million seven hundred and fifty thousand feet.

Add to this the supply of the home demand and the stock on hand and some idea may be formed of the magnitude of the lumber trade of this city and the St. Croix Valley.—Stillwater Messenger.

We can but regret the necessity which compelled us to print our last week's issue upon paper of such limited dimensions. We shall endeavor to avoid this unfortunate arrangement in future.

"One more unfortunate."

Rashly importunate. &c."

One more Benedictine victim. Fearful is the fatality attending our bachelor ranks. One more gone never to return with a deliberation worthy a better deed, our quondam bachelor friend Mark has tied a knot with his tongue, that his teeth can never unloose. Strange is the infatuation of man and slow to profit by example. Many no doubt will be the little marks set opposite his name. Thank fortune our state legislature will ere long, establish an Insane Asylum and then there will no doubt be fewer of whom it will be said, "He's done and been and gone it."

But since the deed is done we are charitable enough to wish him all manner of joy and happiness, and plenty of fractional currency wherewith to keep the pot boiling. And now, with tears in editorial west eye, we beseech the rest of our noble army of bachelors to 'stand steadfast in the faith' and not be so infatuated, or if you must succumb don't run off and do it and not tell a fellow know.

The Atlantic For 1865.

The Number for January, 1865, begins the FIFTEENTH VOLUME OF THE ATLANTIC MONTHLY. The Publishers state that they have made such arrangements for the coming year as will continue their readers that they intend to maintain the present position and popularity of their magazine. They can now announce definitely the following features of the New Volume:

Mrs. Harriet Beecher Stowe will contribute a new series of Domestic Papers, with the title of "The Chimney-Corner."

Donald C. Mitchell, author of "Reveries of a Bachelor," will begin in an early number a story with the title of "Dr. Johns."

Prof. Caldwell Smith, of the University of Oxford, has engaged to write regularly during the year, on topics of interest to American readers.

Prof. Cassius has in preparation another series of his interesting and valuable Scientific Papers.

Nathaniel Hawthorne's papers furnish some scenes from his unfinished work, "The Dolliver Romance," which will appear in the coming Volume.

Fitz-Hugh Ludlow will continue his admirable sketches of travel and adventure.

Mr. and Mrs. S. C. Hall will contribute to the new Volume Memories of Authors they have known, including many interesting reminiscences of Moore and other literary celebrities.

The Author of "Ten Acres Enough" will furnish the ATLANTIC with regular articles of strikingly original character.

In addition to the features above enumerated, other interesting ones are in preparation. The magazine will still be favored with constant contributions from its regular staff of writers, whose names are familiar to the reading public as those of the

FIRST AMERICAN AUTHORS.

The ATLANTIC will continue to furnish to its readers the best Essays, Sketches, Poems, Stories, Political and Historical Papers, and Miscellany of all kinds which American talent can supply.

A medical friend says that tartar emetic is productive of great relief.

Sad domestic explosion—an injured wife lately burst with rage.

Matrimony is a game that every young person should take a hand at.

Can you write "the season is backward" with four letters? Here they are: C C C I

The past and future are alike shrouded from us—the one wears the widow's veil, the other the virgin's.

A Kansas paper sneering at the stupidity of a contemporary, says: The best thing he has got off this week is a dirty shirt.

Why is the Atlantic Telegraph Cable like a dose of tartar emetic? Because it "works both ways."

A hint to young people—a cantor will give you ruddy cheeks; a deca-nizer will give you a ruddy nose.

Why is a prosy preacher like the middle of a wheel? Because the fellows around him are tired.

In spite of all that puritanical people can say against dancing, it is unquestionably a merry-toe-tious arrangement.

Why are ladies who reside in railway carriages reserved "for ladies only," never in time? Give it up? It is because ladies' trains are always behind.

There are three things which I have always loved without understanding anything about them—painting, music and pretty women.

A physician speaking of the frail constitutions of the women of our present day, remarked (let me ought to take great care of our grandmothers, because we shall never get any more.

An Ethiopian humorist has sagely remarked that two of the most striking characters delineated by the immortal
Shakespeare were Cash-Love and *Der-

Rowland Hill said once to some people who had come into his chapel to avoid the rain, "Many people are to be blamed for making religion a cloak; but I do not think those are much better who make it an umbrella."

"Anting pite you dar?" inquired one dutchman of another, while engaged in arguing.

"No, nothing at all."
"Well," returned the other, "nothing pite me, too."

"My dear doctor," said an Irishman,
"it's no use giving me an emetic; I tried it twice and it would not stay on my stomach five minutes."

The jaw bone of an ass, a contemporary thinks, has done more destruction in this country, than it ever did in the hands of Sampson.

A little boy returning from the Sunday school, said to his mother: "Ma, ain't there a kiddy-chism for little boys?"
This cat-e-chism is too hard for me."

"Sister," said one of the brethren at a love-feast, "are you happy?" "Yes dea-ren, I feel as though I were in Beelzebub's bosom." "Not Beelzebub's bosom?"
"Well, some of the old patriarchs, I don't care which."

A little boy, sitting near a window, where the sun shone brightly, eating bread and milk, suddenly cried out:
"Oh mother, I'm full of glory! I have swallowed a whole spoonful of sunshine."

Here is the last effort of a despairing man who is tired of waiting for the At-

"Because one drinks water and makes milk, and the other—doesn't!"—N. Y.

A witty rogue brought before a parishan tribunal for a drunken riot, one day, assured the court that he was not a drunkard, but being bitten when a child by a mad dog, he ever since had a horror of water.

An Irishman, in describing America, said, "You might roll England through it, and it wouldn't make a dint in the ground; there's fresh water oceans inside that ye might drown' Ould Ireland in; and as for Scotland ye might stick it in a corner, and ye'd never be able to find it out, except it might be by the smell of whisky."

A son of the Emerald Isle, once riding to market with a sack of potatoes before him, discovered that the horse was getting tired, whereupon he dismounted, put the potatoes on his own shoulder, and again mounted saying, "it was better he should carry the potatoes as he was fresher than the poor beast."
